

Starting into High School.

Here's to the memory of this great book
The learning of which I just undertook
Of the History of England it is composed,
With great men of letters and Kings that's deposed
If you like good hard study, take this wish-a-will
And I'll bet you a fifty you'll sure get your fill.

Little scraps of paper, little crumbs of food
Put our little Mary in a serious mood,
If you sharpen pencils, ever on the floor
She'll have Wade to get you if you do it more.
Can you blame our teacher if she looks severe
Cause we always do such things when she isn't
So my friends take warning, no more trouble <sup>(near)</sup> please
Then you'll find our Mary, isn't hard to please.

I think the teacher was Mary Gould.

As the sun deepens in the Western sky
Choose your own valentine and with her fly.
