

We have passed through 1915 all the generations represented here - Daughters, Mothers, Grand-mothers. and now what a privilege to be a Great Grandmother in this modern age. I have seen and experienced, the advent of the Telephone, Electric lighting, the comfort of the Automobile, the wonders of the Radio, and many other great achievements. One young lady of 90 years - I do not know if she was a G. G. - but old enough to be, even tried flying - and liked it.

A great evangelist: J. Wilber Chapman while he was conducting a question box, was asked, "When should a mother begin governing her baby, and he replied, begin with the G. G. M. Another privilege, is to see how the little ones of to-day, whom we all love, are safe guarded and protected from birth up to young woman hood. Yes, you can look at the dear little things if you won't disturb it; but no more cuddling or singing to sleep with the good old Methodist hymns. Imagine a modern mother thinking a G. G. M. could tell them any thing about ^{dear} baby, and that is all right; but our influence
